

- Look for where God is being reverenced and follow Him.
- Prepare today for where God is leading you tomorrow.
- Believe God will empower and elevate you when the timing is right.
- See God's present involvement as confirmation of His future participation.
- Persevere in your service to God for the benefit of others.

Questions for Discussion:

Do you know any Christians following someone who is leading them astray?

Why do you think they are following such a one?

What can you do this week to help them turn back to following Christ?

What is God putting on your heart about your future service to Him?

What should you be doing today to prepare you for that future?

What would it look like for you to "step into the water" this week?

Are you presently tempted to drop out from your service to Christ?

If so, what might be some lies that Satan is whispering to you to tempt you to quit?

What in God's Word should you be reading to encourage you to persevere in your service?
